Skin aging

Skin aging is an entirely natural physiological process caused by a series of factors that vary in origin, primarily genetic (chronological aging) and environmental (photoaging).

From the age of 35 onwards, the effects of the progressive reduction of estrogen hormones (hormonal aging), which further decline following the menopause, are also felt. The skin undergoes progressive changes to both its structure and its function: it thins and renews itself more slowly, it is unable to retain water and sebum production is reduced. The result is dry, dehydrated skin with impaired barrier functionality: the skin, now more vulnerable, becomes more susceptible to environmental agents. Over time, a reduction in structural proteins collagen and elastin will result in a lack of the scaffolding that supports the skin, which consequently loses tone and elasticity.

Wrinkles are accentuated, facial muscles relax and the facial profile undergoes a progressive loss in definition as well as the inversion of what is known as the beauty triangle. Dyschromia, discoloration of the complexion, is common, mainly caused by the effects of the sun and hormones.

FOCUS: BIOLINE JATÒ® SYSTEM

Biotechnology applied in the field of cosmetics generates pure molecules using innovative and sustainable procedures that reduce the environmental impact of the formulas.

OLEOSTAMINAL

The first generation of biomimetic oils obtained from the Stem Cells of Wild Olive<sup>5</sup> tree, a plant resistant to drought and high temperatures, which is renowned for its longevity. Thanks to a unique lipid composition, known as Phyto-Lipidic Fractions (PLF), it reactivates the skin's energy and radiance.

TOMATO STEM CELLS

A biotech screen that protects the skin from environmental pollution and the harmful effects of heavy metals for an advanced defense of skin youthfulness. An extract rich in antioxidants and phytochelatin<sup>6</sup> which helps to preserve the structure of the skin matrix, promoting its integrity and elasticity.

Natural active ingredients

UNDARIA SEAWEED

Undaria is a brown seaweed native to the Japanese seas, typically eaten on the island of Okinawa, one of the world’s five Blue Zones<sup>8</sup>. It is recognized for its multiple properties: it has a brightening action, helps to reduce the look of skin blemishes due to aging, and promotes a visible regeneration.

<sup>7</sup> Moringa: a plant used both for food and cosmetics. Its use is justified by its nutritional components and by the numerous properties attributed to it.

<sup>8</sup> Blue Zones: particular places in the world where life expectancy is higher. The secret to the longevity of the inhabitants in these places lies in a healthy lifestyle.

Hi-tech active ingredients

BIOACTIVE PEPTIDE (ACETYL HEXAPEPTIDE-51 AMIDE)

An active ingredient of modern conception: biomimetic peptides act by mimicking the action of a natural protein. The Bioactive Peptide mimics the activity of FOXO3a, a protein associated with longevity. Considered the guardian of skin integrity, it preserves the youth of the skin, protecting it from UV rays and pollution.
